BioLink Named a 2009 “Business Champion”

Cary, N.C. – March 18, 2009 – Today Wake Tech Community College and Business Leader Media recognized BioLink Life Sciences, Inc. as a winner of a 2009 Business Champion Award. The awards are presented annually to those companies that have enhanced the Triangle workforce through creation of new jobs and dedication to employee training programs. Winners were chosen from nominations submitted from all over the Triangle area.

BioLink was one of nine companies that received the Award in the Health Sciences Category. “One outstanding feature of the Award is the recognition of the value that trained employees bring to a small business,” BioLink’s President Deanna Nelson noted. “Each employee presents the face and the voice of BioLink to our clients. We work continuously to ensure that our employees mirror the Company’s emphasis on quality, responsiveness to client needs, and timely communication with others.”

BioLink Life Sciences, Inc. is a pharmaceutical development company that uniquely reformulates drugs to reduce side effects and improve their safety. This strategy significantly reduces the time and cost of development for FDA approval. The Company works with pharmaceutical partners to commercialize, market, and distribute its drug candidates.
